

FUNNY WARMIN'G

Bring the Ruckus against climate chaos & corporate resource wars from stolen Native American land to Iraq and Afghanistan

What?

Funkadelic youth & student-powered mobile street party bringing down the k-street corporate lobbying machine

When?

Friday January 29th; kick-off TBA

Where?

Meet @ Lafayette Park

Who?

You, your fly crew, and your dancing shoes: mad rowdy young people and our allies, DC Students for a Democratic Society & DC Rising Tide

Why?

Last month, Fossil Hawks celebrated two great victories: the US-led failure of the Copenhagen climate summit and Obama's escalation of the War on Terror in Afghanistan and Pakistan. Thanks to their aggressive lobbying, the world's worst CO₂ emitters, companies like Shell and Exxon, are free from new international pollution regulations and fixing to reap huge profits from Obama's expanding resource wars in the strategic oil and natural gas-rich war zones of the Middle East and Central Asia.

The importance of challenging the violence and treachery of corporate power is becoming increasingly clear to the Climate and Anti-War Movements. If we want to turn the tide of climate chaos and corporate resource imperialism, then 2010 must be a year of unprecedented cooperation between our movements in creative resistance against the Fossil Hawks.

DOWN WITH THE FOSSIL HAWKS

* Fossil Hawks are the war-making corporate climate criminals and the politicians who serve them: the mining companies, energy companies, weapons manufacturers, military logistics companies, and mercenaries who profit from resource wars and lobby to sabotage US and UN environmental regulation.
